Cathédrale Saint-André

Constructed in the 12th-14th century, restored in the 19th century. Included on the UNESCO world heritage list. Saint-André cathedral is a fine example of Gothic style architecture in the south of France. Designed to complement the church, the bell tower Tour Pey Berland overlooks the cathedral square.

Rue Sainte-Catherine

The royal intendant Boucher has commissioned this extraordinary architectural complex in 1755. Buildings along the Bordeaux waterfront were designed by Portier in the 18th century. This project was commissioned by Tourny to complement the architectural harmony of the place for 1.2 km.

Place des Quinconces

Château Trompette, a medieval fortress, was built on this site in 1457 to prevent English invasion after the French victory in 1453. The Monument aux girondins was built in homage to the representatives of Gironde guillotined during the French Revolution.

La Cité du Vin

Situated in Bordeaux, the Cité du Vin is a new generation museum where wine comes to life through an immersive, sensorial approach, all set within an evocative architectural design.
